National Black Nurses Association Announces 2019 Scholarship Recipients

The National Black Nurses Association is pleased to announce its 2019 Scholarship Recipients. “NBNA is pleased to award scholarships to 16 nurses and nursing students to help support their educational pursuits”, stated Eric J. Williams, DNP, RN, CNE, FAAN, NBNA President. “We are delighted to help nurses at all levels, LPN to doctoral candidates, with financial support of $1000 to $5000, based on scholastic achievement, financial need, social justice acumen and research endeavors.”

The awards will be given on Saturday, July 27, 2019, 2:00 p.m. – 4:00 p.m., during the Awards and Scholarship Ceremony, which is part of the 47th Annual NBNA Institute and Conference, July 23-28, 2019, Hilton Riverside New Orleans Hotel, New Orleans, LA.

The theme of the conference is “Advancing Nursing Practice: Innovation, Access and Health Equity”. NBNA is expecting 1000 nurses and student nurses to attend the conference. NBNA is comprised of nurses at all levels, from LPNs to doctorally prepared nurses; bedside clinicians, chief nursing officers, deans of schools of nursing, researchers, academicians, case managers and entrepreneurs.

DR. LAURANNE SAMS SCHOLARSHIP - $1000 Each

The Dr. Lauranne Sams Scholarship is awarded to a qualified NBNA member based on scholastic achievement, financial need and community service and who is in pursuit of a baccalaureate or other advanced nursing degree. The scholarship, which is named for the Founder and First President of the NBNA, has a proud and distinguished legacy. The recipient must be an individual who truly represents the leadership, the commitment to service and the scholarship of Dr. Sams.

The candidate must be a NBNA member for at least two years; must have completed at least one full semester/quarter in a graduate program; and, must have at least one full semester/quarter to go to complete the program of study.

Social Justice is not charity. Social justice is a virtue in which there is an organized, collaborative and interprofessional relationship among professionals that facilitates access to that which is good for all of society. It embodies all those factors which influence social determinants of health for all members of society.

When referencing to nursing...the profession of nursing and those entrusted as professional nurses...have a responsibility to continually work with others so that healthcare access and positive health outcomes are achieved for all of society. An evidence based strategy is to include service learning as a means of introducing components of social justice through student engagement in services projects.

This is an endowed scholarship.
